NEW YORK, July 2?—The libel case against Tilton brought by Gaynor has been postponed until Monday for hearing. Interviews by reporters with F. B. Carpenter and Johnson throw no light on the subject. In court to-day Tilton objected to a private examination.

A NEW AFRICAN EXPEDITION

The London Daily Telegraph announces that the proprietors of that paper have united with Mr James Gordon Bennett in organizing an expedition of African discovery under the command of Mr Henry M Stanley. The purpose of the enterprise is to complete the work left unfinished by the lamented death of Dr Livingstone, to solve, if possible, the remaining problems of the geography of Central Africa, and to investigate and report upon the haunts of the slave traders. For this difficult and dangerous journey Mr Stanley has displayed fitness of a peculiar kind and we cannot but feel a pride in the selection of one of our countrymen and a member of our calling for so honorable a task. "It will represent," says the Telegraph, "the two nations whose common interest in the regeneration of Africa was so well illustrated when the lost English explorer was rediscovered by the energetic American correspondent. In that memorable journey Mr. Stanley displayed the best qualities of an African traveler, and with no considerable resources at his disposal to reenforce his own complete acquaintance with the conditions of African travel, it may be hoped that very important results will accrue from this undertaking to the advantage of science, humanity and civilization."

Mr Bennett has no doubt entered upon this work with all that lavish liberality in the promotion of daring and adventurous deeds and that keen desire for the laurels of his profession which have long been admired in him. The exceptional journalism which not content with recording history must needs make it has seldom been more signally illustrated than in this new African adventure and its success will be applauded by none more warmly than by Mr Bennett's rivals in business.—N. Y. Tribune.

BEECHER'S FIRST SERMON IN PLYMOUTH CHURCH.

Burleigh's letter to the Boston Journal.

I conversed with a gentleman to-day who heard Mr Beecher preach his first sermon in Brooklyn. The site where Plymouth Church now stands was considered so unfavorable to public worship that Dr Cox's Society abandoned it and sold it to the Plymouth people for a song. Dr Cox's people, owing to the visit of Mr Beecher, were obliged to give up their church before they were ready. The lecture room being crowded, many of the old Society went back to their old home. The congregation that greeted Mr Beecher half filled the house. Just before the service commenced a rough looking youngster, with a turn down collar, with an air of haste and energy, took the pulpit. He looked like a young farmer fresh from the plow. His dress was soiled, hair in the utmost confusion, clothes ill fitting, stockings blue, shoes unblacked. Following Dr Cox, who was ultra-clerical with his white cravat and black silk gown, the young Western preacher formed a marked contrast. He did then what he has done ever since, proceeded at once to business without the formality of what is known as private prayer. Before the preacher got through his rough Western look, his untidy hair, seedy dress, blue stockings, short pants and coarse shoes were forgotten. Then nearly all the churches had service in the afternoon. Young Beecher was to preach in the evening. My informant and his family went leisurely to church. There was an acre of people outside. Even the standing room was occupied before 7 o'clock. The disappointed ones, as they went away, gave vent to their feelings in the original remark, "A new Broom," etc. And the broom has been sweeping away for twenty-seven years.

THE ARKANSAS INVESTIGATION.—St. Louis, July 19.—The Democrat's Little Rock (Ark.) special says that the Congressional Committee began its investigations yesterday by examining Gov. Baxter, who, in reply to a few questions, said he never had had the returns of the election by which he claimed to be elected, and did not know where they were. In a speech at Loonsburg a year ago he said that he had the original returns in his possession. Gov Baxter is reported to be very angry at the action of the Convention in declaring that all officers from the lowest to the highest shall be elected, as his Democratic friends had promised that his term of office should be scheduled by a constitutional provision. Persons who have conversed with him say he threatens to disperse the Convention with the militia if it interferes with his term of office. The Democrats had a caucus Friday night to ascertain how many members of the Convention could be relied upon to disband the militia, and thus prevent Baxter from interfering with the [illegible]

ANECDOTE OF SIDNEY SMITH.—The thing occurred in Edinburgh when Jeffrey, Brougham, Sidney and the rest of that brilliant constellation of men of genius were shedding so great a luster upon Auld Reekie and the world. There was at the time a literary pretender and bore in Edinburgh whose everlasting subject of discourse was The North Pole, and whose delight it was to inflict his theme upon every patient listener. He met Jeffrey in the street one day, and after the usual salutation at once introduced his favorite subject. "D—n the North Pole," vociferated Jeffrey, and extricating himself from the bore's grasp pursued the even tenor of his way. The former, wincing under Jeffrey's abrupt treatment, also went on his way, when encountering the good natured Sidney he related to the latter with much chagrin and disgust what Jeffrey had said. "Ah," (says Sidney,) "I wouldn't mind it. We all know Jeffrey. You'll hardly believe it, but in a conversation I had with Jeffrey the other day he actually spoke disrespectfully of the equator."

SHORT OF PHYSICIANS.—There are French cities of 15,000 inhabitants which have not one single physician. There are cities of 20,000 inhabitants which have but one physician, and he is not a graduate of a medical school. There are always posted in the arcade of the Paris Medical School the names of fifteen or twenty towns or villages which have no physician, and wish one. Lille is a city with a population of 200,000 souls; it contains only forty-three physicians. Roubaix is a city of 76,000 souls; it contains only eight physicians. The counties in which there are fewest physicians are the counties in which the per centum of mortality is highest.—Paris Letter.

They soon met the men, and instead of trying to arrest them killed them both. Moore left for Salt River, and Hall came back to Desert Station, when Mr Larribee refused to allow him to take the horses any farther south, as Hall claimed the horses were stolen from Salt River. Larribee said they would come to Tucson, leaving the horses at Desert Station, and investigate the affair. Hall assented, and in company with Larribee and another man started on the way, when Hall jumped into the brush and escaped.

LATER.—Hall, who, with the assistance of Moore, murdered the Mexicans near Desert Station, has been arrested. The examination last evening resulted in his being committed to jail. METHODS OF LEGISLATION.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

My first intention was to write a series of articles under the former heading of "Legislation and Reform," but before going any further let me acknowledge my [illegible] to take [illegible] back square out. Any average fool, even one who runs—for office—knows better than to connect the two things. A very small amount of legislative reading will satisfy him that the chief end of man in the Legislature, whatever else it may be found to be, is not Reform. Since universal experience has shown these two things to be incompatible, I suppose I ought to have known better. Hereafter I am determined to stick to logic, and especially not to allow myself to make such fanatical suggestions as that the State Constitution be amended back as it was. Organizing would hardly be worth the trouble to the Executive and Judicial Departments at least. And since that will of course be out of the question, let the Legislature act fearlessly in the discharge of their duty to themselves by increasing their own pay to at least ten dollars per day, and increasing the length of the session to at least three months. That will give the legislative branch a fair chance with the other foot pads, and the co-ordinate branches of the band have been winking so long it is probable they are asleep and will have nothing to say. This, of course, should be done early in the session, so that those who have trades to make may not be hurried, but be enabled to get the best possible prices. And while on the question of time, by all means let the usual religious ceremonies be omitted. Members of the Legislature don't care much for such things, and as there are no pecuniary interests involved probably they will not be construed to be vested rights. And indeed, there are reasons of great importance why all such performances should cease. The cause of religion suffers immensely. I attribute the unfortunate position in which Beecher—ward Henry finds himself, as well as several other leading divines, entirely to this evil. To pray over an average band of legislators or Congressmen is a far greater shock to the faith of an intelligent being than the "Prayer Test" for which Prof. Tyndall can never be forgiven. Men do not always die of consumption or leprosy, and some of the poor sufferers in the hospital, even at death, were [illegible] restored to health, have been comforted and prepared for death—but there is a limit even to faith.

Instead of any sort of religious service the platforms of the three parties might be read, if any one could be found in either House who believed that promises made before election should be remembered afterward. After this farce had been gone through with, in order that the members might have their minds directed in a proper channel and to the true objects of legislation, let all the amendments which have been made to our State Constitution by former Legislatures be read. Members may thus [illegible] any point of pecuniary importance has been neglected. The necessity for this will be at once apparent when we consider that the human mind seldom has originality and force enough to carry any invention at once to perfection. And in the various steps of organizing our State Government so many theoretical impossibilities have been already accomplished that the surest way to reach more startling and brilliant results will be to see what has already been done. And in order that higher objects of ambition may not be wanting, and the spur of example which makes men truly great, let some selections from Oakes Ames' moral philosophy and methods of securing votes be read. The public are generally familiar with his theories and fully appreciate the depth of that far-sighted man, who showed by uniform and long continued experiment that gold and reason are the same, or if not, that they stand in the relation of cause and effect. The back pay and increased salary bill will naturally be read, and the noble example of those self sacrificing Congressmen who cast their votes for this important question in sublime disregard of their own personal popularity be kept in mind. That such a number of men capable of becoming martyrs in such a cause should be found together in public life is a noteworthy fact. And it is a happy thing that there was nothing partisan in their action—that in fact it was the instinct of humanity—cupidity.

As the [illegible] of the State Printer is notoriously inadequate and is to be increased in every possible way, [illegible] of the joint rules—[illegible] with them perhaps, since they do no harm and are never invoked except to quell rebellious minorities—let some of the principal acts of the national legislature be put in type for the use of members. This will of course include the back pay bill, the Butler and Sanborn method of increasing revenue, and all those acts of the past Legislatures by which our Constitution has been amended. A list of all those members of Congress who have so heroically retired to the shades of private life by reason of their vote on these and kindred questions might be included. A little study of these general principles will enable the members to grasp the "Methods of Legislation" without serious difficulty.

On the under side of each member's desk let a copy of the resolutions of all three parties be pasted. It may be in fine type, and is of course merely a form, designed simply to indicate the general nature and importance of promises made before election. By these and similar methods, our Legislature, though badly split up, may hope to rival those which have gone before, and if I have succeeded in giving them a single hint I shall feel that I have not lived in vain.

POLITICAL ASSESSMENTS ON CONGRESSMEN.—The resident sub committee of the Republican Congressional Executive Committee have recently sent a circular to the Republican members of Congress requesting contributions of, it is said, $100 from each, to pay current expenses, and for printing. It is said that returns are coming in promptly as requested.—Wash. Cor. Chicago Tribune.

TRIAL TRIP OF THE TUG ASTORIA.

About five months ago the steam tug Astoria was taken to Portland for repairs. Five months of time and thirteen thousand of treasure exhausted every improvement that the best mechanical and nautical skill could suggest.

The Knowledge, says Carlyle, that will hold good in working, cling thou to that. Monday, the 27th of July, was the day appointed for this test of working. What a fine horse is to a gentleman of the turf a fine ship or boat is to a seaman. When any ship or boat is to be tested, whether she be propelled by steam, by wind, or by oars, every nautical man delights to be present and take a part. Our party was small, consisting of about twenty-five gentlemen, and not a lady, and yet we had enough experienced seamen aboard to decide the qualities of any ship that was ever launched. It will be sufficient to say that of the party were Captains Flavel, Rogers, Kippen, Wass, Hustler, Eucan, Lord, Beauchean and Hubbard. The tug went to the upper town after General Adair, Pilot Commissioner. Captain Rogers, another of the Commissioners, has been already mentioned.

At half-past ten we started for the Pacific. It was at once observable that the boat, though driven along with great power and speed, was not perceptibly jarred. The engineer, Mr Fox, declared that everything worked just as intended, and Capt Flavel suggested that it would be well now to notice the furniture of the cabin. Each man when he returned on deck was smoking an excellent cigar, and wore a happy contented expression of countenance, which suggested that he was not the least bit thirsty, and that the cabin was all right. Out through the South Channel, in by the North, until, turning to the left, we enter Baker's Bay and tie to the wharf.

Here all partook of an excellent lunch prepared by that prince of caterers, Mr Arrigoni. The champagne was excellent and abundant. Some went up to the lighthouse, some down on the beach. The sand has during the last six years gained much upon the sea in some places, in other places the sea has gained upon the sand. Six years ago the large cave was much obstructed by sand; now the mouth is open, and Capt Rogers and W. [illegible] Worthington went to the end of it. They measured the distance and made it two hundred and forty feet from the entrance to the end of the cave. Many people have evidently been there this summer—there are many tracks in the sand and cuttings in the wall. No fine shells can be found upon the beach. Passing up through a canyon which lies north of the Cape, we find thousands of pieces of timber have floated in there and lodged. Whole trees, square timber, saw logs, spruce, fir, yew are all here mingled in inextricable confusion.

Some of the party pointed out the spot where some years ago a soldier heavily ironed was at work while two soldiers with loaded muskets were watching him. He sprang into the brush and down the hill; they fired—they must have missed him, for no trace has ever been found of him since. The hill is now covered with salal bushes; the berries are now almost ripe.

The road from the beach winds up the hill and comes out near the powder house. Mr Hare, Mr Ir[illegible], and Mr Hobson, Mr Twilight, Mr Van Dusen and others enjoyed themselves very much at the lighthouse. The view from this point depends so much upon the clouds, upon the effects of light and shade, that it is never twice the same.

To Major Smith, Lieut Jones and Messrs Allen the party were indebted for much polite attention. The run back was quickly made and the Astoria was highly complimented by all, and the feeling was unanimous that we had enjoyed ourselves to the utmost, and that as good machinery and as good boats can be made in Oregon as can be made anywhere.

PARBOILED

Another horrible case of boiling alive occurred in Cincinnati recently. It occurred at Bullock & Co's hair factory, near Lickrun, says the Commercial. The victim was a young man named George Fox. The bristles used in this branch of manufacture are dyed in a mixture of logwood and sulphate of iron, which is kept boiling in a huge vat, not unlike those in use in large breweries, and it was Fox's business to stir up the mixture with a long pole. While stooping over the vat in the exercise of his duty his foot slipped and he fell head foremost into the seething liquor below. His cries for assistance were heard by David Walter and several of his fellow workmen standing near at the time, but none of them had witnessed the accident, and they ran to another part of the building, supposing the sound came thence.

By the time they had discovered the real trouble and helped Fox out, the poor fellow was in a terrible condition. Luckily a large barrel filled with a mixture of lime and linseed oil in equal parts has always been kept at Bullock's factory ready for such emergency, and in this they attempted to plunge the sufferer immediately. Unfortunately, however, they first put him, in the hurry of excitement, into a barrel of cold water by mistake, which only aggravated his sufferings. From this position he was of course speedily released and placed in the pain allaying mixture previously referred to. While willing hands were dressing the poor fellow's wounds, Mr Dennais, the factory superintendent, sent off one of the clerks in a buggy for Dr H. M. Hittner, of 194 Freeman street, who promptly arrived on the scene and rendered the sufferer all the assistance in his power. He pronounces Mr Fox's injuries not necessarily fatal, and considers that there are good prospects of his recovery.

PLAIN LANGUAGE FROM A TERRITORIAL [illegible]

THE LEADING REPUBLICAN PAPER OF COLORADO KICKS IN THE TRACES.

The Denver News, hitherto a strong Republican paper, in its issue of the 5th says:

The Central Republican Territorial Committee meet in this city to-day. Let it be understood that the News does not hold itself bound by any action it may take. With us party allegiance is a thing of the past, and we shall comment upon its duty and action both before and after its meetings from our own independent notions of what is right and proper under existing circumstances. There are two things which this Committee can do. It must either repudiate Grant and McCook and Jenkins and Searight, and the whole outfit, or else it must submit to the President's action and recognize these men as party leaders. A compromise between these two paths amounts to submission, and is a thousand times more discreditable. The Colorado politicians cannot serve God and Mammon, McCook and Chaffee—they must be either followers of the National and Territorial Executive, lost to character and reputation as they are, or else opponents. A middle path there is none.

THE SITUATION IN COLORADO.—Colorado politics are [illegible] mixed. While the Republican party was badly split by President Grant's appointment of Governor McCook, Democrats are no better off since seventeen members of their party voted for McCook's confirmation. The Denver News, formerly a good Administration organ, thus states a possible solution of the muddle: "The nomination was infamous; the confirmation was more so. It now begins to look as if the Republican party of the Territory would decline to recognize the leaders designated by the President, and by their convention would pitch McCook overboard, spew out the whole carpet bagging outfit, denounce the President's recent action, and go into the campaign with a candidate and platform which will ignore the whole Lander and Jenkins regime. Such a course would be manly and could be approved. But where, oh! where would the Administration flunkey's go?"

OREGON

The crop of flax seed in Oregon this year is estimated at 100,000 bushels.

Salem had a bit of amusement the other day in the shape of a Chinese funeral.

Wheat 50 cents a bushel at LaGrande last week, and flour per barrel $3 50.

Umatilla county is $27,82?.70 in debt, being $501 54 less than she owed a year ago.

Daniel McWaters of LaGrande was thrown by a bucking horse the other day and his wrist broken.

An establishment for the preparation of green tow, such as used by upholsterers, is being erected at Salem in connection with the oil mills.

A call has been issued for a convention of physicians, to meet in Salem September 2d, for the purpose of forming a State Medical Society.

The twenty boys who went from Salem to pull flax for $2 an acre concluded they couldn't do it without grub, and returned home.

A Marion county constable recently refused to arrest two men that were pounding away at each other at a brutal rate—because it was Sunday.

The Union County Agricultural Society have appointed a committee to prepare a list of premiums and the necessary printing and to report progress on the 1st prox.

A petition to the LaGrande Town Council asks for new sidewalks. Bro. Bull, of the Sentinel, says individuals had better pay off private indebtedness before encouraging more expenses to the city.

On Saturday last Mr Orville Butler, of Monmouth, while assisting in moving some baled hay, by the breaking of a plank was thrown to the ground, dislocating his shoulder, besides getting a bruising generally.

By reference to our telegraphic dispatches from Salem it will be seen that Gov. Grover has refused to commute the death sentence passed upon Thomas Gerrand for the murder of Mr Hubbard. Nothing now remains for poor Gerrand but to prepare for his doom.

Mr I. B. Wait has just returned from a jaunt through Yamhill county and informs the Record that crops over there are looking splendidly. Yamhill is one of the best districts of the Willamette Valley and promises a capacity for production which is made the most of by as good a class of farmers as can be found in our State or in most other States. They are summer fallowing a great deal of ground for another year, and good cultivation is evident almost everywhere, as farms show good care and good fencing, and good crops follow as a matter of course. The hay harvest is over there and some work has been done in the wheat fields, but headers will not commence to run until the latter part of the present week. Mr Wait speaks of seeing much good stock, as well as many good farms in that county.

The Indians in Chewaucan valley, South Eastern Oregon, are getting troublesome. A letter from a resident there, to Gov Grover, says: "As it seems the only resource left us, I, at the suggestion of the citizens of this and the surrounding valleys, ask and pray that you will do all in your power to give us protection. It seems the Military Department have concluded to abandon Camp Warner (the only protection we have) regardless of all our petitions sent in, and everything else. These Indians are roving all over the country, killing stock when it suits them. Ochoho says he has some Indians he can't control, and those are the ones that make the trouble. Only a few days ago, there were two of our citizens out hunting a stock range and were attacked by one of these roving and lawless bands of Indians and barely escaped with their lives. Their pack mule was killed and most of it eaten up by them."

POLITICAL ASSASSINS

The attempt on Prince Bismarck's life is not the only one that has been made to kill that personage. In 1866, just before the beginning of the war between Prussia and Austria, a young fanatic, said to have been insane, attempted to shoot him while he was walking on the Unter den Linden in Berlin on his way home from an interview with King William. Political murders and attempts to murder have been in all ages almost as common as other political events. To record them all would require a good sized volume. In our day—that is to say, within the past forty years or so—the list is a formidable one. Louis Philippe was peculiarly unfortunate in this way. Several attempts were made to kill him, the most notable of which was that of a man who fired at him in the park of Versailles, and on July 28, 1835, the conspiracy against his life headed by Fieschi, a Corsican, whose infernal machine, intended for the King's destruction while he was reviewing the troops in the Boulevard du Temple, killed by its explosion Marshal Mortier and some others. A great many years ago a boy named Oxford attempted Queen Victoria's life, and on February 29, 1872, some excitement was created by the performance of a crazy Fenian youth named O'Connor, who pointed an unloaded pistol at Her Majesty while she sat in her carriage in Buckingham Palace yard. The present Emperor of Russia has twice been put in peril by the assassin's knife; first on April 16, 1866, one Karakozoft tried to kill him, and the Emperor ennobled the peasant Kemisar, off by name, who turned away the would-be murderer's arm. The second attempt was made at the Paris Exhibition of 1867, by a Pole named Berezowski. The late Emperor Napoleon also had many narrow escapes from assassination, the best known of which was that when Orsini with his bombs attempted his life in the Rue Lepelletier on January 14, 1858, and in the attempt of Pianori in 1855. Other recent attempts at assassination were those made against President Thiers Feb 5, 1872, when he was shot at; the attempts on the life of King Amadeo of Spain and his Queen at Madrid on July 18th of the same year; a similar attempt against the King and Queen of Portugal on January 6, 1865, and the attempt against Prince Alfred in Australia in April of that year. Some months ago an insane priest fired at Senor Pruy Margall and then blew his brains out. Among the political murders of the past few years, in addition to that of President Lincoln, may be cited that of Marshal Prim at Madrid Dec 28, 1870, that of Prince Michael of Servia, June 18, 1868, and that of the Governor of Burgos, Spain, January 25, 1869.

A PLAIN SPOKEN NEW ENGLANDER IN LOUISIANA.—Gen. Sewell, whose name indicates New England origin and who was one of the few leading minds in the Kellogg Legislature of Louisiana, has created a hubbub in the Kellogg camp. The New Orleans Picayune says:

The General has in some one of his numerous speeches emitted most heretical doctrine, which has naturally aroused great indignation among the sable brethren. He dared to suggest the policy of electing to public office persons who could read and write, giving his own experience of embarrassments in committee where, as it frequently happened in the last Legislature, there were members who could not sign their names to reports. The enlightened sovereigns of the Sixth District properly resented Gen. Sewell's aristocratic pretensions and proposed to call in the police to suppress his attempt to disturb the harmony of the party. The little colored statesman who hails as Senator from this District, even went so far as to impugn the integrity of the General, whereupon that gentleman hinted the possibility that he would have to administer to him some of that wholesome discipline which is regarded as essential in inculcating a proper respect for and due appreciation of the value of the slate pencil and the spelling book. At this intimation a detachment of the police fell upon the General and bore him away.

ANOTHER PHILADELPHIA CHILD ABDUCTED.—Philadelphia, July 24.—Another child, four years old, was abducted yesterday by two men, one colored, who enticed them into a wagon and then drove off.

THE TERRITORIES

Boise City fell behind $62 on her Fourth of July celebration.

Out in Montana when they start a man down hill in a barrel they speak of his "appearance in a new role."

Prairie chickens are very abundant in the vicinity of Walla Walla. Two nimrods bagged 178 in one day last week.

James McQuade, the Sunnyside Gold amalgam robber, has been committed to jail in Boulder, in default of $2,000 bail.

Fred McDonough was fatally stabbed at Laramie on Saturday night. The knife was dexterously wielded by one Lew White.

They think nothing of a country girl in Boulder county who can't go after the cows on a bare back pony without bridle or halter.

The matter of securing grounds for the Fair Association, to hold fairs [illegible] not seem to receive much attention from the Olympians.

In Idaho City a livery stable was entered by a thief last week, who, like the dusky Arab, and yet not like him, folded a halter and silently stole a horse away.

Congressman Shanks of Indiana, is on a tour of observation among the Indian tribes, under escort of a troop of cavalry, of course, to protect his scalp.

John L. Miner, a prospector, has returned to Boulder from a tramp through the North Park, and brings back specimens of silver ore which assay $11,000 to the ton.

Judge Fisher, of Cheyenne, don't permit any woman to talk back to him in Court, as Mrs Maria Harris can testify to her sorrow. She "sassed" him $50 worth.

A peripatetic mountain lion has been attacking and mangling cows and calves on the Platte below Greeley. The ranchmen are organizing an aggressive movement.

The Colorado Register learns that the coming of McCook & Co's double back action, new combination circus and Indian (contract) menagerie, is unavoidably postponed.

The Trinidad Chronicle does the handsome by its dental subscriber Dr Fisher, when it editorially avers that he is physically able to land a nine inch snag with the dexterity of a bucking cabello.

The Walla Walla City Recorder sustained the validity of the ordinance closing the saloons on Sundays, in a test case tried before him. The matter will probably be taken to the District Court.

The office of the Land Department of the N. P. R. R., hitherto located at Kalama, has been moved to Tacoma. The office of the defunct Kalama Beacon newspaper will follow during the summer.

Kate Brewster, the songstress, with most of the members of her troupe, climbed to the summit of Gray's peak last week, and the whole party sang a song from a tip-top boulder, and did it in tip-top style, too.

Hon John Hailey, Delegate in Congress from Idaho, is endeavoring to secure to miners, farmers and others the right to cut timber necessary for their own use, on Government lands, without the usual stumpage tax. We hope he will be successful.

Capt Perry's company of soldiers who have been up in the Nez Perce country, have returned to Walla Walla. Although the Indians talk saucy and act overbearing when they dare, they seem to be afraid to do any overt act which would probably bring on a war.

Henry Coulter, of Olympia, or who did reside there awhile ago, is a lucky individual. In 1854 he was a resident of California, where he was defrauded out of a large sum of money by a party who fled to South America. This man died recently leaving an estate valued at over $200,000 entirely to Coulter, by way of reparation.

There is a Quaker Agent over the Indians on the Fort Sill Reservation, Arizona Territory. He has always, until recently, been a "man of peace" and opposed to fighting on any ground, but not long since the Indians surrounded and threatened to kill him and his employes, when he very quickly called on the military to relieve him.

The Olympia Courier says: "The Chehalis stage went out yesterday morning loaded to its utmost capacity with passengers and freight. A short time ago that route was abundantly supplied with mails and express matter by a single horse and rider, but since it has been proved beyond the possibility of a doubt that the whole Chehalis valley is a rich agricultural district, the increased population demands increased traveling facilities."

The Denver News says: "The outlook in New Mexico is not flattering. The floods in the Rio Grande, the Pecos, indeed, in all the streams of the Territory, swept the valleys with the besom of destruction, and in many localities the crops have been utterly ruined. In El Paso county it is said several persons have already starved to death. A gentleman from that county tells some distressing stories of the sufferings of a portion of the poorer class of people. A Mr Blanchard has almost consumed his fortune buying flour for the destitute."

The Walla Walla Union of last Saturday says: "The threshing season has fairly opened now and the farmers begin to see how the crop is going to 'pan out.' The grain crop is going to be shorter than was expected before threshing commenced. The grain in many localities where ordinarily the yield is good is very much shrunken and the yield very light. There are many fields that this season will not turn out more than one-half what they did last, and that of rather an inferior quality, while in scarcely any place will it come up to last year's yield. The amount of wheat for shipment this year will be very light when compared with that of last season."

LOSS OF THE CITY OF GUATEMALA.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Nassau advices state that the Pacific Mail Company's steamship City of Guatemala, Captain Hildreth, from New York for Aspinwall, was wrecked on the northeast point of Watling Island, Bahamas, on Thursday, the 16th inst., at midnight. All hands saved.

ONE OF THE STEAMER'S BOATS NOT YET HEARD FROM.

She was a freight steamer and carried no passengers. She was built at a cost of $270,000, and insured for $220,000. Two boats were sent out from the steamer, one to Fortune Island, which has not yet been heard from, and one to Nassau, which arrived after a stormy passage, the crew being in an exhausted condition. Several of the crew arrived here to-day. Assistance was sent to the steamer from Nassau. Part of her cargo had been thrown overboard, but without doing any good. At latest advices she had twelve feet of water in her hold. The company here have no official advices from the steamer, but the officers state that the pecuniary loss to the company will not exceed $200,000. Her cargo for San Francisco amounted to 2,500 tons. It was of the usual miscellaneous character and included 242 packages of dry goods.

Watling Island is directly in the course of the steamers plying between New York and Aspinwall, being one of the chain through which they pass. The Guatemala is one of the small iron propellers belonging to the company, and ranks with the City of Panama. She registers 1,780 tons. The agents here state that the loss of this steamer will not materially interfere with the operations of the company, for various reasons. In the first place the steamer was fully insured; secondly, the steamer can be easily replaced; and thirdly, the company has already contracted for several steamers of the same pattern as the Guatemala. The policy of insuring these ships is eminently sound. The company is saved serious loss by the insurance of the Guatemala.

A CATALOGUE OF DISASTERS.

The City of Guatemala is the fifth of the Pacific Mail Company's steamers lost within two years. The America at Yokohama, the Bienville near the Bermudas, the Guatemala in the Gulf of Tehauntepec, and the Sacramento on our own coast were all total losses, while the Oregonian, Rising Star, Arizona, Constitution and Orizaba, all of this line, have been more or less damaged within two years.

THE MAMMON OF UNRIGHTEOUSNESS.—A movement is on foot to have the Rev. John H. Newman, now traveling in the East as Inspector of Consulates, assigned for duty in the Metropolitan Methodist Church in this city, on his return from his arduous official labors. The Metropolitan is the Church which the President attends, and Mr Newman had charge of it for some time prior to his engagement in the Government service. The congregation, who seem greatly attached to him, insist on his return. As he is an intimate friend of Grant, it is probable that the rules of the Church will be relaxed so that he will resume the functions of Court Chaplain.—Wash. Cor. Chicago Tribune.

THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 30 1874

AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP

Those who carefully consider the matter cannot but arrive at the conclusion that the migration of people to this country from Europe should be encouraged as a means of developing the resources and promoting the growth of our country. Not until our population shall be three or four times as great as at present will the capabilities of the United States be fully understood even by the most intelligent of our own citizens. Along the Atlantic a comparatively narrow strip has been brought to a high state of culture, but the "Great West," embracing nine tenths of the continent, has scarcely made a start in the progress which is to be completed in the great future, one half of it remaining yet almost untouched and the remainder only just beginning to feel the impulse to reach after higher achievement. The people are busy, busy beyond the careful business limits of the older communities. Not infrequently they act without method or with method so imperfect as to deprive them of much of the rewards of industry. Sometimes their energies are wasted on enterprises that can not but fail, in the very nature of things; sometimes on premature enterprises which twenty years later would be as sure of success as they are of failure at the time they are undertaken. The people of the West are an adventurous people, but they are not lazy or inactive. Ill directed exertion may waste them, but inertia seldom rusts them. Where nature and circumstances present so many tempting fields for which there are so few reapers there will inevitably be a disposition among the few to attempt more than they can accomplish. It is in this great western field that more people are needed. The three hundred thousand that land at New York annually can be scattered over the country and absorbed into the population for fifty years and there will still be ample room for them and their posterity for an indefinite number of years to come. The flow of immigration might be doubled or trebled and there would still be no danger of the population of the United States becoming too great for the happiness of the community within the lifetime of any person now living. And as to all the leading qualities of good citizenship these immigrants are not inferior to the native born American. This is especially true of those classes of them who go into the country and engage in agriculture and kindred pursuits. Industrious, orderly, peaceable, more ready than most of the native born citizens to accept the destiny allotted to most mortals and live by the sweat of their faces, they make desirable neighbors and excellent citizens.

But are they in fact American citizens? Are their interests identical with those of the great masses of the people of this composite nation whom we are in the habit of designating as Americans, or are they building up local governments and communities after the models they left in the several lands of their nativity? Are they component parts of the American Government, or merely European communities within American territory? By all the laws of naturalization and by all the theories of the development of free government in this country, one would be led to suppose the naturalized citizen became in his public interest an American, and that in the course of time he would become an American in his modes of thought so far as it is possible for one to be changed in this respect. But if one takes the common expressions of sentiment on this subject, and especially the newspapers of the Northwestern States as a basis upon which to form his judgment he will be led to conclude that such is not the case, but that wherever there is a community composed wholly or mostly of foreign born citizens, there is an imperium in imperio, a European government inside the American government. The political conventions act upon this idea when they compromise away a well recognized principle for the avowed purpose of conciliating some particular class of naturalized citizens, and when they nominate candidates for the Germans, for the Scandinavians, &c, instead of nominating for the whole country. We have just been reading an article in a very influential Western paper in which it is said that this thing of distinguishing between native and foreign born citizens is carried to such length in Minnesota as to threaten the formation of parties upon that basis alone. Such is the natural tendency of the unrepublican and foolish practice of classifying American citizens upon other grounds than those that underlie questions of administration and policy. There is in the nature of our institutions sufficient plasticity and adaptability to meet every case as nearly as any government can under a fair application of the majority rule to the settlement of differences of opinion, and there is no occasion for the division of the people into Americans and Germans, Americans and Scandinavians and the like. Besides, when rightly viewed such a division is an insult to both parties, and many intelligent naturalized citizens have expressed themselves strongly against any such distinction as especially offensive to that class.

EDWIN M STANTON

The St. Louis Dispatch has a long article on the late Edwin M Stanton, in which it is stated that Stanton committed suicide in consequence of remorse for his part in the war for the Union and especially in the trial and condemnation of Mrs Surratt. Stanton is portrayed as one of the bloodiest tyrants that ever held the destinies of a people in this or any other country. Philip the Second or the bloodthirsty Duke of Alva was not more cruel and relentless than Stanton is made to appear. The story goes on to say that for some time before his death the Great Secretary was gloomy, morose and dispirited, that on the evening of the 23d of December, he having accepted the position of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States on the 19th, he sat down to be shaved at his own house as his custom was, and that when the colored barber laid down his razor for a moment and stepped across the room for something, Stanton seized it and inflicted a wound upon his own throat, from which he expired before the next morning, with no body about him but the Surgeon General and two or three confidential friends.

Of course nobody will believe this absurd story. It has been cooked up in malice toward the memory of the great man whose strength and fidelity contributed so much to save the Government from shipwreck. Those who were best acquainted with Stanton during his life give prompt denial to the statement that there was anything like tyranny in his nature. Though resolute in action and firm as the eternal hills when once convinced of the line of duty, he was of a gentle, peaceful and genial disposition.

MORE ABOUT THE PEACE COMMISSION [illegible]

The OREGONIAN'S notice of the payment to Mr A B Meacham of a salary as Peace Commissioner for a year when the Commission of which he was a member had existed for only a few weeks has called out a gentleman who has been in a position to witness the entire proceeding and who informs us that Meacham is defaulter to the amount of $12 000 on account of moneys received by him while he was Superintendent of Indian Affairs for Oregon and that the $6,000 allowed him for his services as Peace Commissioner to the Modocs was actually paid to him in hand while the Department was in possession of the knowledge of his defalcation. Here there was a double wrong. It was wrong to allow him for whole year's service when he had been employed only a few weeks or two or three months at most, and it was a wrong to the people at large and to his bondsmen in particular to pay this money to him in hand when he was in default in double the amount in his accounts with the Government. We have entertained an idea that Mr Meacham was among the best of the bad lot that make up the Railway Custom House ring of politicians that have ruled and ruined the Republican party in Oregon, and we are not going to reverse our opinion of his comparative merits on account of this disclosure, but it is unpleasant to believe that the least bad of them will emerge from a brief official term with such stains upon him.

ANOTHER

Mr A B Meacham does not stand alone in the glory of his defalcation to the Government. It transpires that Mr Ben Simpson is struggling with embarrassments of a somewhat similar kind. Ben was an Indian agent a few years ago over at the coast reserve. To say that Ben was an Indian Agent is, of course to suggest the probability that Ben's disbursements in connection with his office were not equal to his receipts. And this appears to be the case. In other words, Ben's accounts didn't balance. The Government has him debited with about $30 000 more than he shows satisfactory credits for. Ben has been at a good deal of trouble about this matter, but thus far he has not been able to make the Government "see it in that light."

It is a sad comment upon the state of things at the national capital but it is nevertheless true that Ben Simpson was nominated and confirmed Surveyor General of Oregon while this large balance of $30 000 was suspended over him, and while that fact was known in the Senate if not to the President. But it is, on the other hand an encouraging sign that there is some virtue left when the Department of the Interior causes his salary as Surveyor General to be stopped till his accounts as Indian Agent are made right. This has been done and although our John Hipple, to whom Ben has been extremely serviceable in times but recently past, has been making a desperate effort to get the order stopping his salary rescinded, the order still stands and Ben is left to chances of living off such small dust of coin as may stick to his fingers in the letting of surveying contracts.

A correspondent at Salem desires to say through these columns that the present State Librarian is a great many bad things. He may be. As the Irishman said who tried to persuade his father to come to America and run for constable, "mighty mean men get office in this country." But inasmuch as we don't happen to know the truth of what the writer wishes to state, and as the statements are such as we should not think of publishing without thoroughly investigating the case, we must be excused for the present at least. If the Librarian is such a person as our correspondent makes him out it would be well for the correspondent to break his head and then the whole story would come out in connection with and explanation of the fact of the head-smashing. But not knowing of the facts in the premises we prefer to take no chances of having the bruising business commence at the OREGONIAN office.

BEECHER TILTON

THE FEELING IN NEW YORK AND BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, July 24 —The general feeling of this city and Brooklyn is now more moderate and all await hopefully Beecher's full statement.

The clergymen of this city and Brooklyn have maintained the utmost reticence on the subject and uniformly refuse to express an opinion concerning the latest disclosures in the Beecher case. A few, while not willing to condemn Beecher hastily, still profess a staunch belief in Beecher's uprightness. The general opinion among professional men appears to be that the public courts and not a body of select men should decide the case. The members of Beecher's church are more confident than ever of his triumphant acquittal.

DISAPPEARANCE OF EVIDENCE IN THE WASHINGTON SAFE ROBBERY CASE — Washington July 24. The Critic this evening contains the following. It now transpires that the messenger books of the Western and Franklin Telegraph Companies which contained signatures which it was alleged were altered by Colonel Whitley, and which were used before the Congressional Investigation Committee have been stolen. The telegraph companies and the Solicitor of the Treasury are apparently moving heaven and earth to find them but thus far without success. It is understood that other valuable papers in this important case have mysteriously disappeared.

STEWART OUT OF THE CONTEST — According to the Sacramento Union William M Stewart states positively that he is not a candidate for re-election to the United States Senate from Nevada. This is self-abnegation of the highest order. Seeing that his railroad record precludes almost the possibility of any one having the audacity to nominate him, this announcement, if there is no mistake about it, disposes of one Republican candidate, but the Democratic aspirants are increasing and likely to be as thick as flies on a sugar bowl.

THE CHICAGO TIMES ON COLFAX

We suspect the Chicago Times does not like Schuyler Colfax. Indeed we should like to hear of somebody the Times does like. But here is a paragraph that makes us think that paper has a special antipathy to Colfax:

Bray Joseph Surface, Uriah Heep, Elijah Pogram and Aminadab Sleek in a mortar, add to the mess the liquid essences of cant, pretence, hypocrisy, falsehood, theft and sham, cast the compound in a mold called "Vacuum Humbug," and the product will be what is known by the name of Schuyler Colfax. This peculiarly American commodity is just now making the grand round of visits to the brethren and sistren. Just now it is the Odd Fellows who are enjoying the visitations of Brother Colfax. The Sewing circle Sisterhood will perhaps be next in order [illegible] programme. Then the grand Order of Pertotal and Everlasting Panhandle brethren. Then the Society for the Amelioration of the Condition of Dead Ducks. And then that for the Recovery of the Patrimony of [illegible] Dead Beats. [illegible] all of these and every other brotherhood, sisterhood, old maid [illegible] and grannyhood [illegible] that the virtuous and unselfish [illegible] of South Bend is high priest and apostle. The admiration of the brethren and sistren for the virtuous friend of Nevins the postal contractor is touchingly shown by the statement that "at Lexington, in this State, notwithstanding the thermometer marked 100 degrees in the shade, the vast audience remained deeply interested in the brother's able speech of more than an hour's duration," and [illegible] telerere. Verily great art thou Infinite and Immortal Humbug!

SQUEAMISH —The Independents of McDonough county, Illinois, are not going to have any. They wanted to make the Democrats indorse their Springfield platform before allowing them to vote their ticket. The Democracy of Blandinsville Township thereupon besought the Chairman of the County Committee to call a separate convention to nominate a local ticket, which he has done. Some people are not so squeamish about who votes for them as the McDonough County Independents —Chicago Tribune.

VIRGINIA CONGRESSIONAL CAMPAIGN —It is stated by a Virginia Republican Congressman that in the First Congressional District of that State the contestants for the Democratic nomination for Congress are Gen Fitzhugh Lee and ex Senator R M T Hunter. The Downing clique of colored men in Washington have sent speakers to Virginia among the colored people to influence the latter against Congressmen Thomas and John Ambler Smith for voting against their Civil Rights bill.

All Eastern Oregon and Washington Territory are growling about the mails.

LOST OVERBOARD.—What a dreadful significance there is in the words, "Lost at sea" to those whose avocations confine them to old terra firma, but its import must be still more appalling to those who go down in ships and do business on the great sea. Few vessels touch at this port but what some of the crew on the long and in many instances stormy voyages here are swept overboard and committed to the remorseless deep. A young sailor who shipped before the mast, aged about 19 years, was lost at sea during the long voyage of the English ship Orara from Melbourne to this port. While engaged at work on one of the forward yard arms he lost his balance by a sudden lurch of the vessel and fell into the water. The young sailor struggled hard with the rough sea and remained in the wake of the ship for some little time. Before a life boat could be launched and the sailor reached he sank and was lost forever. The vessel kept on in her course and the sailor boy was left to sleep in his ocean bed amid the tangled sea weeds and coral reefs in the unfathomable depths of the ocean. Deceased was an Englishman by birth and much respected by officers and crew. His name we are unable to learn.

A [illegible].—One night last week, one of the inmates of the Oregon Insane Asylum escaped from [illegible] and wandered over to the car shops of the O C R R. The particulars of his escape and capture are as follows: He was confined in a room in the second story of the building, and by some means he bent the bars across the window and formed an opening large enough to allow his body to pass through. He formed by tying portions of his bed clothing together a sort of rope which reached nearly to the ground,—one end of which was attached to his bedstead. He then climbed down this and started toward the shops. His keeper early in the morning missed him, and started in pursuit. After traveling some distance he noticed his patient standing near the car shops shivering and trembling and in a state of nudity. He informed his keeper that it was his intention to depart on the morning train but that he was doomed to disappointment. The keeper kindly but firmly persuaded him to return again to his room, which he did after some deliberation.

REACHED HIS DESTINATION.—Mr Samuel B Parrish, who has been appointed Indian Agent at the Malheur Reservation, passed through Boise City last week on his route and has reached his destination ere this. The Statesman pays Samuel the following handsome compliment: Mr Parrish understands the Indian character as well if not better than any man in Oregon, and made himself very useful in visiting and picking up the roving bands in Eastern Oregon during the Modoc war. He went among the different bands entirely alone, and understanding the character and being able to talk their language was able to persuade them to come into Camp Harney instead of going to assist the Modocs, which the people as well as the Government very much feared at that time, as the Modocs had their runners out trying to gain assistance and incite a general Indian war.

INCENDIARISM ATTEMPTED.—On last Saturday night an unsuccessful attempt was made to set fire to the two steamboats belonging to the Willamette River Transportation Co, which are moored at the eastern shore above the saw mill. The watchman on board one of the boats hearing a peculiar noise got out of his bed to ascertain the cause. On reaching the deck, he discovered two men in a skiff rowing away from the boats as rapidly as possible. He gave chase, but was distanced by the two men and had to abandon the attempt to overhaul them. Upon examination the watchman discovered that one side of the steamer was besmeared with coal oil, the object being, no doubt, to set fire to her. This would have been done had not the incendiaries been timely discovered.

DEATH.—Miss Minerva VanCleave, daughter of Hon J S M VanCleave, State Senator elect, departed this life at her home in East Portland on Tuesday evening. The disease was of a pulmonary character and her sickness lasted but a few short weeks. Miss VanCleave was a most highly respected and estimable young lady, beloved by all who knew her. She was just entering the estate of womanhood, which seems all the more sad that one so young and prepossessing with all the promises of life before her should thus pass peacefully away to the great unknown. A large circle of friends mourn the departure of the young lady and sympathize deeply with the bereaved family in this their sore affliction.

ACCIDENT.—While a man named Henry Johnson was employed chopping wood west of the city yesterday morning he had the misfortune to meet with a very severe accident. During the absence of the teamster who was hauling wood into the city a dead limb became detached above Johnson's head and fell on him, striking him directly on the crown. The limb fell sufficient distance to knock Johnson insensible. He remained in that unconscious condition until the return of the teamster, who conveyed him to a house near by and summoned a surgeon. As yet the full extent of the injuries sustained is not known. It is thought that the skull is fractured, in which event death may ensue.

MILITARY ORDER.—The following special orders (No [illegible]) have been issued from the Department at Washington under date of the 13th inst: Lieut Col Rufus Saxton, Deputy Quartermaster General, is relieved from duty in the military division of the Atlantic and will report to the Commanding General of the Department of Missouri for assignment as Chief Quartermaster of that Department. Capt Charles H Hoyt, Assistant Quartermaster, now on leave of absence, is relieved from duty in the Department of the Columbia and will report to the Commanding General Department of Missouri for duty at Fort Leavenworth in place of Major Dana, relieved.

SILVER AND GALENA.—The silver and galena lode lately discovered on the head waters of Lewis river in Washington Territory, about forty miles northeast of Vancouver, is now being extensively worked. Five men are constantly employed in getting out the ore, of which more than twenty tons are ready for shipment. Owing to the absence of any facilities for smelting the ore will have to be sent down to San Francisco to be reduced. The ore is reported to contain a large percentage of both galena and the argent metal. The yield is quite large and offers great inducements to capitalists to develop the lode.

TOTALLY BLIND.—Yesterday's Statesman has the following: Many of our readers recollect Wells Drury, a well known Oregon printer, who was at one time a resident of this city. We see by some of our exchanges that he is now in Virginia City, Nevada, and has for several weeks past been totally blind, caused by the alkali of that country. Wells was a young man of excellent abilities, and his friends throughout the State will be pained to hear of his affliction. Mr Drury worked at his trade for some time in this city, where he has now residing many friends and acquaintances among the craft.

COMMISSION RECEIVED.—Mr D J Malarkey, who was appointed United States Marshal for Oregon some time since, vice Tho G Young, removed, received his commission yesterday from Washington. His official bond was fixed at $20,000. Mr John O'Connor and Mr [illegible] Crawford are the sureties. Mr Malarkey has filed his bond, which has been duly accepted and approved, and will enter upon the discharge of his official duties forthwith.

CUTTING DOWN.—The importation of Chinamen being now about over, the various firms down the Columbia are cutting down very materially their working force. Already a large number of laborers have been discharged and more are to follow. Yesterday the Emma Hayward brought up over 100 Chinamen who have been employed along the Lower Columbia during the fishing season. More are to come.

SERIAL PAPERS.—P J Malone, a professional short hand reporter, well known in Oregon, having been quite prominently connected with the journalism of this State more than ten years ago, is now a resident of San Francisco. He is furnishing a number of useful papers entitled "Reminiscences of a [illegible] Reporter" for the Irish Nation, published in that city.

COMING TO OREGON.—The Boise Statesman of the 25th says: Mr John W Endley, from Junction City, Davis county, Kansas, called on us yesterday on his way to Oregon. He came all the way with horse teams and reports a large immigration on the plains. One train from Fort Scott has 100 wagons and families destined for Oregon. He represents times very hard in Kansas—no money and crops a failure. On an average not one full crop in three years. They are getting away as fast as they can, but are too poor to come by railroad—couldn't sell their teams for enough to pay their fare to Kelton.

LAST DAY.—Assessor Dolan will be in his office on Friday and Saturday of the present week to receive written statements of property. Saturday being the 1st of August the books will be closed on and after that date and no more written statements received. Property owners should bear in mind this requirement of the law and not neglect to hand in their statements at once.

FOUNDRY AT CORVALLIS.—G N Frazer, formerly of the Pioneer Bell Foundry, and Frank Smith, the well known blacksmith and wagon maker, will leave the city this morning for Corvallis. The intention of these gentlemen is to start a foundry at that point. Both are very thorough competent workmen and they will doubtless meet with success in the proposed enterprise.

LARGE BUILDING.—Barnum Bros, who have been merchandising in East Portland for some years, recently purchased the corner lot situated just north of their present place of business, on which it is proposed to erect at once a large one story wooden building. The dimensions will be 30x90 feet. Work will be commenced in a few days.

SCHEDULE CHANGED.—By reference to the advertisement of the Oregon and California Railroad Co it will be observed that changes in the time table will take effect on Sunday next. The southern mail will hereafter arrive at 4 15 P M. Freight trains will be put on leaving at 6 15 A M, arriving at 5 15 P M.

FINE RESIDENCES.—Four handsome elegant residences have just been completed on the corner of Sixth and Taylor streets, belonging to Capt J C Ainsworth. These structures have what is known as arch front. They are among the most convenient and tasty residences to be found in the city.

BURIED.—Yesterday all that was mortal of the late Charles Meston, the unfortunate lad who was drowned last Monday night, was conveyed to the Lone Fir Cemetery and consigned to the grave. A large number of sorrowing and sympathetic friends followed the body to its final resting place.

SEVERE FALL.—Wilson Hamilton, son of A Hamilton, residing on Eighth street, about six years old, fell from the second story balcony to the ground yesterday afternoon, receiving a severe gash on the head and being otherwise bruised and stunned. No bones believed to be broken.

EXCURSION TO VICTORIA.—The O S S Co's propellor California will sail for Victoria on Friday 31st inst. The trip is made to afford excursionists an opportunity of seeing the Sound and Victoria. Tickets for the round trip $20.

RASPBERRIES.—Daniel Lewis, on the Base Line Road, four miles from town, brought to market this season 3,200 pounds of raspberries raised on his farm. How high is this? Can anybody beat it? Sample box received.

REDUCTION OF FREIGHT.—Until further notice the Oregon Steam Navigation Company announce that they will charge only $8 per ton for freight between Portland and the Dalles.

SODA WATER.

ANECDOTES APPROPRIATE FOR THE HEATED TERM.

When as at the present time the weather is hot and the sunshine becomes almost intolerable, most truly man may be said to earn his bread by the perspiration of his manly brow, and then to the parched pedestrian water of any kind especially soda water is peculiarly welcome and refreshing.

The following anecdotes which we have gleaned from several exchanges may not prove uninteresting to the soda water loving readers. It was just such weather as we have spoken of that a party of gay young ladies from New Haven entered one of the metropolitan drug stores, each one of the party calling for soda with her favorite syrup. Now in New Haven a mixture of vanilla, strawberry and ginger is known as the Boston. One of the young ladies entirely forgetting that the Boston was emphatically a New Haven mixture informed the dispenser of soda water that she would take a glass of the Boston. The above mentioned dispenser thinking that the Boston wine or brandy was meant replied regretfully that he had no license to sell "grog." The lady left indignantly amid the titters of her companions. Soda water has long been used as a cooling drink in various forms of fever, but it is only within a few days that we heard it recommended for a very different complaint. A few days ago an elderly couple were about to enter a drug store, evidently from the country. The lady who seemed to be the leader and manager said: "I will take some lemon soda water." Then turning to her worser half inquired "Hiram, Hiram, what will you have?" Hiram replied with: "Hiram I, the respond I think I will take ginger to mine, it always does my corns good, Susan."

Another exchange tells of a tragic incident which is said to have occurred in a Portland apothecary shop. The harrowing tale runs thus: A colored lad entered a store with what he described as an awful feeling in de stomach jest like it was full ob fish hooks and carpet tacks, and demanded a seidlitz powder. Accordingly the seidlitz powders were dissolved in separate glasses as usual and placed before him with instructions to pour it into the other and drink while effervescing. Instead of following the directions he hastily drank off the contents of one glass and immediately swallowed that of the other. The effect may be imagined but not described. The effervescence which should have taken place in the glass took place in the bewildered darkey's stomach. As soon as the poor fellow could draw his breath he cried out in an agitated tone: "Dat stuff may work well nuff on de white trash, but it's sure def on a nigger."

Some one has said that soda water was a luxury not often to be indulged in by the poor man, but the following incident seems to disprove the statement. Some time ago a seedy looking customer stepped up to a stand where soda water was sold and demanded lemon soda. After drinking long and deeply he sets down the empty glass, wipes his mouth with a handkerchief that had once been white, fumbles in his vest pocket plaintively inquires of the clerk whether said clerk is cruel enough to take a man's last penny? The clerk says most decidedly that he is barbarous enough for such a deed. The seedy party quickly produces one cent, hands it to the clerk and walks off remarking: "Well that is my last cent, you said you would take a man's last cent for a glass of soda." The clerk was just nine cents short that night.

It is very curious but nevertheless a fact that soda water always tastes better—that is you relish it more and you imbibe the innocent compound more freely—when you know you are with a friend whom you know will insist upon paying for the beverage than when you are conscious that your friend will smack his lips, pick his teeth and gaze intently at the soda fountain till you produce the required twenty cents. If you happen to be a pretty girl you will get numerous invitations to drink with the drug clerks. For instance: A fair young lady in Waterbury went to a drug store and told the man to fix up a dose of castor oil, and to mix it with something to take the taste away. The man told her to wait. In a few minutes he asked her if she would take a glass of soda. She accepted the invitation and drank the beverage. Presently she asked the roller of pills why he didn't give her the oil. The man smiled triumphantly and said, "Madame you have taken it. I mixed a fearful dose with that soda." She turned pale, sank into a chair and gasped—"Immortal Jove! I wanted it for my mother in law!"

Unless you are very desirable of sticky manual appendages, avoid shaking hands with the man behind the fountain. As a last piece of advice we would warn all members of the human family to beware of fooling with the faucets on a soda fountain, for many inquisitive people have received both unwelcome and unlooked for shower baths while so doing.

Puncheons of quack medicines are drunk every year. Some people have a hankering after them. If half of what is claimed for them could be believed the Board of Health might go into bankruptcy. There would be nothing for them to do—so if good people will take pills and drastic cathartics until they grow too weak for any more drugs until they use PLANTATION BITTERS when they become able to go about again and so be restored to health.

Sciatica is really Hip Gout, and one of the most excruciating diseases which afflict mankind. It usually shows itself first on the ball of the foot involving the toes and often the entire leg from the hip joint. If neglected or wrongly treated the disease becomes chronic and entails a life of misery upon the sufferer. By rubbing the parts affected from the center of the disease, which is the hip, following the nerve which can be easily traced by the pressure, with MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT, instant relief will be experienced and if persevered in a permanent cure will be effected.

If there be one thing which disfigures the face more than another it is sallowness. This results from the clogging of the pores of the skin, which always produces cutaneous disease. The only remedy is the regular use of HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM, which opens the pores and restores the bloom of youth by removing the disturbing cause. The jaded, worn look of many young ladies scarcely out of their teens results from the use of paints and unguents, which excite at first but are always succeeded by premature decay of beauty.

Strange Head-dresses!—A writer of the reign of the Maiden Queen described the prevailing styles of Head Dressing. The hair must be curled, frizzled and crisped, laid out in ropes, wreaths and borders from one ear to the other, and lest it should fall down, under propped with forks and wire, and ornamented with great wreaths of gold and silver, with bugles, ouches, rings, glass and other such gewgaws. Now a Lady needs only a bottle of LYON'S KATHAIRON to keep the hair healthy, lustrous and luxuriant, and a moderate amount of taste, and she can excel the historic beauties of the olden times.

A LIVELY NEGRO WEDDING

MISS LETICIA QUINNEY MARRIES MR. A. R. STEPHENS—THE CHURCH AND ITS DECORATIONS—HOW THE ASSEMBLAGE AMUSED THEMSELVES—LECTURE ON MATRIMONY—A GRATEFUL BRIDE

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 7, 1874.—Making my way leisurely through [illegible] the place the other afternoon I was accosted by one of the most prominent business men of the bay

"You have come south," said he, "in search of the picturesque, and I have something here that I think will aid you."

Fumbling around through his pockets, he presently drew forth a card written in a fair hand, of which the following is an exact transcript:

Compliments
Miss LETICIA QUINNEY,
and
MR. ALEXANDER R. STEPHENS.
West Broad street. At 8 o'clock.

I ventured to inquire the nature of the document.

"Did you ever attend a negro wedding in Georgia?" asked my friend.

I confessed that I had not.

"Well," said he, with a smile in which there was something like triumph, "that is a card of invitation. You might take advantage of it."

"But," said I, "what would people think?"

"People be hanged! I am going. That girl Leticia is the daughter of one of my old family servants. She's been running after my wife every day for a week to find out whether I am going to her wedding. She'd be awfully cut up if I didn't go. Say the word, and I'll call around at 8 and pick you up."

GOING TO THE WEDDING

Promptly at 8 I stepped into my friend's carriage, and we rode to the church in the southwestern portion of the city, where the ceremony was to take place. We drew up before a modest but substantially built modern structure, near which was gathered a crowd of ragged urchins both white and black, as if anticipating something unusual. The inside was very tastefully decorated with evergreens and flowers, and in front of the pulpit a flowery arch had been reared.

We arrived some time before the bridal party, but quite a large audience had already assembled. Instead of laughing and talking, the congregation amused itself by singing hymns. This continued until the bride and the bridegroom entered the door. As soon as one song was successfully disposed of, some ambitious brother would launch another upon the air, everybody joining in and carrying it to the very highest point of vigorous and harmonious intonation.

THE MELODIES

These hymns are peculiar combinations of melody and nonsense. When we entered, the audience was singing the last stanza of a very popular song, as follows:

Oh, sisters, a'n't you happy
An' don't you want to go
For to leave dis world of sorrow
An' sit down here below?

This ended there was a short pause. Then a quavering voice raised the song beginning:

De orbs of hebben am still a shinin—
A shinin in de new Jerusalem
King Jesus come in de cool ob de mornin—
De mornin' ob de new Jerusalem

And so on. It would be impossible to describe the fervor with which these songs were sung by the singers. Another hymn runs as follows:

O little chillun, you better git home,
O little chillun, you better git home,
O little chillun, you better git home,
Dere's room enough for you.

Dere's a long white robe an' a golden crown,
Dere's a long white robe an' a golden crown,
Dere's a long white robe an' a golden crown,
Awaitin in de hebben for you.

The chorus of this singular hymn runs:

Room enough, room enough
Room enough in de hebben for you
Room enough, room enough
Room enough for you.

This doubtless looks very much like nonsense, but this nonsense does not appear when you hear the negroes sing it. On the contrary, it is one of the most effective hymns I ever heard.

THE BRIDAL PARTY

Finally, in the midst of the singing, a rustle was heard at the door, and the preacher, a very large and very black negro, who had been sitting in the pulpit with his eyes closed, stood up at the desk and raised his hands. This was the signal for silence, and in the hush that followed the bridal party swept up the aisle. The bride was an exceedingly comely negro girl and tastefully dressed. I learned afterward that the finishing touches to her toilet had been made by her old mistress. The groom was also a fine specimen of his race.

There was some awkwardness displayed by the two attendants of the bride, but they were quickly set right by the preacher, who appeared to be on his duty.

"De ladies will please take dar places on de lef'," said he in a very uncompromising tone. "De gemmen will stan' on de right."

In executing this evolution one of the attendants of the groom trod on the foot of an old colored brother, who acknowledged the compliment by an "Ugh!" so sepulchral and apparently so gratuitous, that the congregation was first startled and then convulsed.

"Let dar be silence," said the preacher. "I' dar is any scoffers in high places, dey will now have an opportunity to retire."

Here the preacher paused, pulled out an immense red handkerchief, and proceeded with much apparent unction to mop his face. The scoffers in high places refused to retire, but it was evident from the silence that fell upon the congregation that they had concluded to scoff no more. The preacher accepted the compromise and, with the bridal party still standing and looking very uncomfortable, he launched into a lecture on matrimony. Much of this lecture was humorously incoherent, but the following will give a fair idea of the substance. As far as it goes it is literal:

HOW DE MARRIAGE HAPPENS

"Brudern and frens: When two young people say to deyselves dat dey have rived at dat disposition whar dey can bar wid one anuder's failins an' inequities, dey mos' al ways take a notion for ter marry. An' when a man muster up spunk enough for to go an' buy de license an' de oman hang her head an' say she willin' to stan up an' let de man claim her in de eyes ob hebben an' de gin'ral public, den de marriage happens."

"Here an old brother remarked, "Dat's so!" and the remark seemed to encourage the speaker.

"Why does de man lub de oman? Caze she pooty. Why does de oman lub de man? Caze he strong. Why does de man an' de oman bote lub one anudder? Caze de Scripters had prophesied it from de foundation. But dey don't always marry right along like you tink dey orter. De gals is mighty sly. Dey am like the terrapin. De nigger go long troo de swamp an' he say to hisse'f dat he feel mighty hungry. Bimeby he see terrapin on de log in de sun wid he eye shet. Den he nigger mouth begin fer ter water an' he hanker arter dat terrapin.

"'Cooter,' he say, 'I lub you.'

"Tarrapin no say nuttin.

"Nigger say, 'Cooter, you look mighty fat.'

"Tarrapin he open he eye.

"Nigger slide up little closer an' say, 'Cooter, you make good soup,' an' den he reach out he han fer ter fetch him in. But de tarrapin he slide wid de water an' de nigger he stay hungry.

"De cooters like de gals. Dey let de boys git mighty close an' den dey git away. But here my frens is a man an' a oman what say dey am tired ob foolin roun' an' dey has come up here dis ebenin fer ter be united in de holy banns ob wedlock. Dey had dat true lub dat casts out fear. Dey am not ashamed ob deyselves."

THE CEREMONY

Here there was a pause and some confusion was occasioned by the discovery that a candle had been dripping upon the dress of one of the bridesmaids. The preacher lost the thread of his discourse, and when quiet was restored the preacher remarked in a very severe tone:

"De couple will please step forward and jine dar right han's."

Then he again paused, smote his brow with his red pocket handkerchief, and proceeded:

"Ef dar is any pusson within soun ob my vice dat knows, or tinks he knows, or hab reason to bleeve dat dar is any objection why dese man an' oman should not be jined together at dis time an' place, let him rise up and make it known, or fever arter hold his peace, so help him God."

There was no objection and the ceremony was performed by the regular orthodox style.

My mercantile friend desired me to go to his house where the bride and her friends were to have some cake and wine provided for the occasion by her old mistress. I was told afterward that when Leticia returned and found that those who formerly owned her had been thoughtful enough to fix up an elegant collation for her in the kitchen, she fell into a fit of crying that astonished her guests, and then capped the climax of hysterics by hugging and kissing all the members of the family she could lay hands on. Here's luck to Leticia.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, July 29, 1874.

Gold in New York 109¾.

Legal Tenders in Portland—buying [illegible]; selling 91½.

Sight exchange on New York coin ¼ of one per cent prem. and currency ¼ of one per cent.

Sight exchange on San Francisco is at par; currency ½ of 1 per cent prem.

Gold bars 7½.

Wheat in Liverpool, by mail advices from San Francisco, 11s 4d a 11s 9d for average California and 11s 9d @ 12s 2d for club.

We gather from our Eastern exchanges that the condition of the country at large is improving financially. The imports at New York are reported for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1874, at $44,000,000 less than the year preceding, and $19,000,000 less than 1871-2. On the other hand the export trade for the same period shows an increase. Excluding specie, the amount for the first six months this year is $143,472,000, a gain of $1,000,000 as compared with last year, and $37,000,000 over 1872. The export of specie and bullion amounted $[illegible] as against $[illegible] last year, and $[illegible] in 1872. We will now bring forward a comparison for the fiscal year ending June 30th:

Fiscal Year	Imports	Exports	Duties
1873	420,474,000	212,822,100	176,374,000
1874	376,000,000	234,646,200	110,193,300

The figures are from the New York Journal of Commerce, and are considerably in advance of the statements issued by the Bureau of Statistics. The imports are placed at their invoice cost, exclusive of freight and duty, and include specie and bullion. The exports include specie and bullion and the currency and gold value of the merchandise and produce on the day of shipment. The duties are in gold and refer exclusively to goods withdrawn from bond or entered for consumption. It will be noticed that the imports are $44,000,000 less than last year, and $19,000,000 less than for the year 1871-2. This is a good feature. Another good feature is the lessened proportion of dry goods received. Formerly this class of imports formed one third of the total. Last year the proportion is only 27 per cent. If there is to be any lopping off in the import trade, that branch can probably stand it better than any other on account of the greater proportion of articles of luxury contained therein. The exports, as will be seen, show a gain of $22,000,000 as compared with last year, and $67,000,000 as compared with 1871-72. If we deduct specie, the result is still more favorable.

The large imports of specie and bullion last year are noteworthy. The bulk of the amount was received last fall. Two causes contributed to the movement, namely, the financial panic in New York last October and the partial failure of food crops in Europe. A portion of the money sent during that emergency was subsequently returned. Deducting these receipts of treasure, the decrease in the import trade is found to be $44,000,000 instead of $34,000,000. The falling off in Government revenue is to be deprecated. The receipts at the New York Custom House alone show a loss of $16,000,000 last year, and $37,000,000 as compared with 1871-2. Some of this is, of course, due to the lessened import trade, but a good portion of it must be credited to a modification of duties and the retirement of some dutiable goods to the free list. For example, the imports last year show a falling off of about 6 per cent, but the duties collected are over 12 per cent less. Otherwise the statement is full of encouragement, and the foreign balances against the country must be unusually light.

Wheat in Europe.

A London Beerbohm Trade List of July 3d states that the prospects of the wheat crop in England were generally favorable. In France the same condition of affairs existed. In Germany the growing wheat had not been progressing favorably the week preceding the date above given on account of cold weather, and in some portions of the Empire a drouth prevailed. Rain and warm weather were much needed. In Hungary the weather had been favorable to the growth of wheat, and although the harvest would be ten days later than usual, a good average crop was anticipated. The List says that during the week ending June 27th the imports of wheat into the United Kingdom amounted to 1,022,[illegible] cwt against [illegible] cwt in the previous week. On the 2d of the current month there were 2[illegible] cargoes of wheat on passage to the United Kingdom, computed at 1,006,[illegible] qrs, against 309 cargoes and 1,211,970 qrs at the same time in 1873.

Miscellaneous.

During the past few weeks freights on the Upper Columbia, both ways, have fallen off and the boats find less employment than usual on that route.

The British ship Orissa is about as fine a vessel as has visited this port. Her carrying capacity is about 1,600 tons.

The close of next week is expected to witness receipts of the new wheat crop at least ten days later in the season than last year.

An extensive dealer in sugars and syrups in this city informs us that the amount of these commodities in the State is quite large. The stocks of syrups, it is thought, will last six months. This is for [illegible] under the material advance in rates.

The Philadelphia North American, one of the leading commercial journals in the United States, makes favorable and extended mention of the test of Oregon [illegible] in the San Francisco market.

The business of flax growing is increasing in Oregon, and 100,000 bushels of seed, it is reported, will be raised in this State this year.

We have reports from two or three localities in this valley where threshing has begun, and the wheat is said to yield quite as largely as expected.

A Walla Walla paper says threshing has commenced in that valley, and it [illegible] and in many instances that the yield of wheat will be much less than last year. From all accounts not over two-thirds as much grain will be sent this way from east of the Cascade mountains this year as was received from that section the past twelve months.

Shipping Intelligence.

The schooner Oregonian having completed her cargo with lumber at the North Portland mills went down the river this morning.

The steamship Ajax is announced to sail for San Francisco at 10 o'clock to-morrow night.

The barkentine Webfoot sailed from San Francisco for this port July 24th.

The bark Hermine, from Liverpool, is in the river and will probably reach this port to-night. She has been out 186 days.

The schooner Mary Belle Roberts, [illegible] days out from San Francisco, is in the river and will arrive this evening or to-morrow.

The steamship California will make an extra trip to Victoria and return. She will leave here on Friday.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—To an outsider it would appear that very little is being done in regard to the new crop, but though things appear so quiet on the surface we are informed that some large contracts have been made for fall delivery on terms reserved. The present condition of the market is somewhat better than it was one week ago, but whether the improvement is permanent is a matter of doubt. Quotations are almost nominal at present at $1 [illegible]

FLOUR—The supplies on hand now will carry dealers through the fortnight or so that will intervene before the new crop of wheat comes in. Quotable at $[illegible] per bbl for best brands of standard extras, good outside brands [illegible], superfine $4 [illegible]

OATS—Transactions are light just now as farmers are too busy with harvesting to give the market much attention. The supply, however, is ample, and prices are dull at [illegible] cts per bushel.

BARLEY—There is a good demand for choice lots for brewing purposes and such readily command $1 [illegible] @ 100 lbs including sacks. Common feed quotable at $1 [illegible]

FEED—Stocks on hand supply the present inquiry, which is limited at jobbers paying rates; bran $[illegible], shorts $18, chop, middlings, etc. $[illegible]

HAY—The new crop comes forward freely and prices tend downward; the quotations for baled timothy being $[illegible] per ton; ditto loose $[illegible]. Wild is scarcely saleable at $[illegible]

POTATOES—The market is full of receipts. The new crops of good varieties are quotable at [illegible] cts per bushel. The report that in some sections of Washington Territory the crop had suffered from blight is somewhat exaggerated, [illegible] only the conclusion [illegible] apply to some fields on the sound and on the lower Columbia.
